We are allergic to complicated, expensive, professional support dependent GRC tools

A decade ago a community of CISOs built a simple tool that would get the job done - build a Risk Framework, certify PCI-DSS or achieve a SOC2 Report, Etc.

Built by a small team, used by a community of thousands

This is not Rocket Science

Building and selling GRC software is not like running Netflix. There is absolutely no reason to be charged a magnanimous amount of money for a GRC tool. Use all that money to hire good people, ultimately they will do the work. Use our free community version or pay for Enterprise. We charge what the project needs to operate. That is it.
